Training Regime	In early 2023 she decided to leave the French national training base, the National Institute of Sport, Expertise and Performance [INSEP], to train predominantly at her club SC Levallois. Speaking after her victory at the 2023 European Championships in Plovdiv, Bulgaria, she said her victory justified the move. "I made this choice because I wanted to have more autonomy. I'm not completely detached from INSEP, I can go there to train when I want, but generally speaking I organise my own training as I see fit now. I don't have the same restrictions. Apparently, it has paid off."
