Training Regime	"In the off-season I do a lot of gym and athletic training, a lot of cardio and little attention to detail. Once we get close to competitions, quantity is lost to focus on quality. I also do pilates two afternoons a week. I find it very useful, as it rebalances the body and helps me avoid injuries. I also work a lot on my core as well as on elasticity and balance. The latter is fundamental for the sport I do. I will continue to do so even when I stop being an athlete."

Other information	TRAINING ORGANISER He and his partner, Ukrainian fencer Olga Kharlan, helped arrange for several Ukrainian fencers to train with the Virtus Scherma Bologna club in Italy following the Russian invasion of Ukraine in 2022. Samele also organised fundraising to allow them to compete in international events. "That they are able to compete is the best result we could have aspired to. All the sporting results that will come will be irrelevant to the happiness we feel in seeing them return to live peacefully and enjoy fencing." Following the outbreak of the conflict Kharlan travelled from Bologna to the Romanian border with Ukraine to help her family flee. Kharlan, her sister and nephew then travelled to Budapest, Hungary where they met Samele and drove back to Bologna. "I was against it at the beginning because I was afraid, but with a heavy heart I told her to leave, and that we would find a way to get home. I was afraid she wouldn't come back, but after some time she managed to cross the border and get to Hungary. I took the first plane and left." (bolognatoday.it, 13 May 2022; fanpage.it, 12 Mar 2022)
